

05 BENEFITS OF LEASING

Leasing equipment offers businesses the advantage of accessing new, well-maintained assets with minimal upfront costs, providing flexibility to adapt to changing needs and technology. Read more to learn about five benefits and how leasing material handling equipment from LiftOne can help you achieve your operational goals and save you money.

01

LOW INITIAL COSTS

Leasing requires minimal upfront capital investment, making it more affordable than purchasing outright. In addition, leasing preserves current lines of capital for core investments.

02

ACCESS TO NEW EQUIPMENT

To ensure well-maintained equipment, leasing provides access to new equipment with the latest advancement in technology, safety features and efficiency without the burden of ownership.

FINANCIAL BENEFITS

Fair Market Value (FMV) lease payments may be tax deductible throughout the lease term. Additionally, FMV leases are not categorized as 'debt', allowing them to be showcased as favorable financial indicators on your balance sheet.

04

MORE FLEXIBILITY

To adapt to ever-changing operational needs and to stay ahead of the competitive curve, leasing offers flexibility in lease duration, fleet size adjustments and equipment upgrades.

05

ENHANCED FLEET MANAGEMENT AND OVERALL EFFICIENCY

With the right material handling partner, you can establish an effective equipment replacement and maintenance strategy through leasing. This helps you avoid costly service and maintenance issues linked to aging machinery, while also simplifying the equipment returning process at the end of your term, eliminating the need for resale efforts.
